YOGI BERRA
... breaks record

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees tied the world series at three games apiece today by defeating the Milwaukee Braves 3-2 in a battle of home runs. The seventh and deciding game will be played here Thursday.

A crowd of 61,408 saw the Yankees back up the four-hit pitching of Bob Turley with a record long-range hitting display. Homers by Yogi Berra with one on base in the third inning and by Hank Bauer with the bases empty in the seventh accounted for all the Yankee scores.

Bauer's deciding wallop came just after Hank Aaron had tied the score 2-2 in the top of the seventh with his third home run of the series. Earlier Frank Torre had belted a homer into the stands for Milwaukee's first run.

BUHL YANKED
The Yankees pitcher, driven out early in the third game of the series, gave up only two walks and struck out eight in a fine performance. Bob Buhl, the Braves' starting pitcher, was taken out after the Yankees had gone ahead in the third. Ernie Johnson's relief pitching stopped the Yankees until the seventh.

Don McMahon came in to pitch the last inning for the Braves after Johnson had gone out for a pinch hitter. Berra nicked him for a double and reached third on Gil McDougald's sacrifice. But Wes Covington, Milwaukee's series star, threw him out at the plate after taking Lumpe's fly in the left field corner.

Berra and Bauer both figured in world series records by totaling 10 home runs.

Ingrid Fools 'Em—No Rival This
PARIS (AP)—Parisians turned to stare today as Ingrid Bergman showed a Hindu woman around town.

But it wasn't Sonali Das Gupta, allegedly a romantic interest of Roberto Rossellini, Miss Bergman's husband.
"This is Madame Lyla Oberoi, whom my husband asked to look me up," Ingrid explained to photographers who snapped her picture at luncheon at Maxim's. "Madame Oberoi is the daughter of an Indian nuclear physicist and wants to get in the movies."

Sonali is reported in Paris for a meeting with Miss Bergman, but if she actually is here she has kept out of sight.

Rail Non-Ops Ask Pay Hike

MONTREAL (CP)—Non-operating railway personnel will seek "substantial wage increases," longer vacations and one extra statutory holiday in new contract demands, it was announced today.

Chairman Frank Hall of Montreal made the announcement following a three-day meeting of 14 railway brotherhoods and other unions on demands to be made before Nov. 2. The present two-year contract expires Dec. 31.

KHRUSHCHEV SAYS:

"Must Fight or Talk"

NEW YORK (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev wants a top-level conference between U.S. and Soviet leaders because he thinks the two countries must either fight or talk things out, the New York Times says today.

Soviet leaders were said to desire a meeting of Khrushchev, Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defence minister, with President Eisenhower.

Khrushchev indicated that the launching of the Soviet earth satellite last week may bring the two countries closer to high-level talks, reports James Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of The Times.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV

"Everyone here," Reston writes, "has the same answer to complaints about United States-Soviet differences in the Middle East or Germany: High-level talks by Marshall Zhukov, whose name and picture seem to be more and more prominent, or by Mr. Khrushchev."

PATROLS HELP PREVENT ACCIDENTS

Standing guard and helping to prevent what could be serious accidents is Keith Hough, a member of the high school traffic patrol force. These boys who give part of their noon hour every school day offer protection to the hundreds of school children travelling busy streets. The school boy traffic patrol system was organized here several years ago. Police have warned motorists to give the youngsters the right-of-way and also obey the 15-mile-per-hour speed limit in school zones.

THEY WERE MYSTIFIED!

The Play Was in Reverse!

LONDON (AP)—The BBC set out to mystify its radio audience Tuesday night with a murder play called Death of a Leading Lady—and succeeded beyond its fondest dreams. The play, which was recorded, came out backwards.

The program began three minutes late and listeners were thoroughly mystified to hear it start with the play's detective summing up his conclusions. This went on for eight minutes before an announcer interrupted. "We seem to be having a little trouble with the Death of a Leading Lady," he said. "She seems very dead at the moment."

He turned the tapeplayer off, then restarted it. This time the listeners heard suspects in the murder case being grilled, although as far as the air waves were concerned there hadn't yet been a murder.

MUSIC NO HELP

The second tape ran on for 18 minutes and then the announcer interrupted again. "Not much point to allowing this program to go on," he said. "I'll play some music until 10 p.m."

He played a couple of bars and announced: "That was It Might as Well be Spring. It might as well be autumn or next Thursday fortnight. We will now hear the 10 p.m. time signal."

Some time passed, but the signal failed to sound. The disgruntled announcer apologized and expressed hope that the next program would go on roughly as advertised. It did. A BBC spokesman said Death of a Leading Lady was recorded on three tapes and they were played in the wrong order.

What happened to the time signal? That's still a mystery.

3 Said Killed In Air Crash

KENORA, Ont. (CP)—Three men were believed killed in the crash of a Parsons Airways plane which was spotted today on the south shore of Tetu Lake in northwestern Ontario near the Manitoba-Ontario border.

The pilot of one of the searching planes, Don Watson of Kenora, manager of Ontario Central Airways, said the Cessna 180 was "burnt out" and there were believed to be no survivors.

DRINK GUARANTEED FOR FLYING LEAPS, WITH BEEPS, TO MOON

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—A taven owner concocted a satellite cocktail Tuesday, contending that after one drink you'll take a flying leap at the moon.

"The base is vodka, of course," says Donn Willson, the originator, "but the rest of the contents are secret, comrade." He claimed one patron had two and took off, beeping.

Resources Unlimited

(The Canadian Press)

The largest man-made lake in the world located in the heart of a new industrial empire.

Such is envisaged by Premier W. A. C. Bennett in officially announcing a nine-figure hydro development scheme in the remote Rocky Mountain Trench area of northern British Columbia.

Findings of an engineering firm retained by Wenner-Gren organization indicate that a 4,000,000-horsepower development is feasible. Project would cost $400,000,000 to $600,000,000 and should begin supplying power in 1964.

Largest dam now in operation from standpoint of capacity is Boulder Dam in Colorado which generates 1,000,000 horsepower. Grand Coulee in Washington State manufactures 945,000.

Here are other salient features of the announcement:

1. Project would create largest man-made lake in the world—over 260 miles long.
2. Project would solve problem of salmon fisheries and power development.
3. Eliminate need for Fraser River development by providing ample power for present and future requirement of Pacific Northwest at low cost.
4. Body of water created may change climate in huge area of northern and central B.C. thus encouraging more settlement.
5. Hart Highway and PGE would have to be relocated in some sections without cost to government and without engineering problems.
6. Would revolutionize economic development of central and northern B.C. and revolutionize electrometallurgical industry.
7. Power will be produced cheaper than any other source in B.C.

GEOLOGICAL FAULT

The Rocky Mountain Trench is a huge geological fault, 10 to 20 miles wide, which runs from the United States northward through B.C. into the Yukon.

Last winter Mines Minister Kiernan announced that the provincial government had entered into an agreement with Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren under which a Wenner-Gren firm would conduct industrial surveys in the trench.

If proved feasible, the Wenner-Gren firm would conduct industrial surveys in the trench.

Political Reactions Skeptical

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett's Wenner-Gren power announcement was greeted today with a mixture of skepticism and enthusiasm.

Political reactions were skeptical. The enthusiasm came from fisheries interests, Prince George officials and Einar Gunderson, a director of Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co. Ltd.

Opposition leader Robert Strachan called it a "give-away" and "a sell-out of the B.C. power commission."

B.C. Conservative Leader Deane Finlayson said the whole scheme may be a "fantasy." Liberal leader Arthur Laing called it "old stuff"—"almost a carbon copy" of a 1955 scheme outlined by a Vancouver engineer.

Mr. Gunderson described it this way: "I know of no single event which is so important to the welfare of British Columbia or which will have such far-reaching effects..."

Prominent City Resident Dies

Albert Gibb, familiarly known by hundreds of oldtimers and those not so old, as "Bert" Gibb, a former city alderman and storekeeper, died last night after many months of failing health.

He was 84 years of age and had been a local resident since 1915.

The late Mr. Gibb retired several years ago after a distinguished record of civic service and in business in the city. Gibb's Grocery, at St. Paul and Cawston, was founded by him and still remains in the family, operated by a stepson, Harold Pettman.

His 44 years of residence in the city was broken only by a span of three years, from 1915 to 1918, during which he served with the Canadian Infantry in World War I, starting out with the 172nd Battalion and ending with the 54th Battalion.

POLICE COMMISSION

Mr. Gibb reached the highest prominence in local circles while serving on the city council in the late thirties. He also served for a number of years on the city's police commission before policing was turned over to the B.C. Provincial Police.

He was a past president of the Kelowna Branch of the Canadian Legion and also of the Orchard City Lodge of the Sons of England.

Born in Chiddingfold, Sussex, England, December 30, 1872, he was grounded in the grocery business and also served as a "bobby" on the metropolitan police force in London for two years. He also served with the East Sussex Constabulary for seven years.

Immediately prior to coming to Kelowna to join his late brother, James, he operated a public house. Before opening his store here, he was employed as city policeman and for a number of years as warehouseman at Canadian Cannery.

Mr. Gibb died last night in the local hospital. His late residence was 1876 Marshall St.

Predeceased by his first wife, the former Beatrice A. Beene, whom he married in England, he leaves his second wife, Gertrude (the former Mrs. Pettman), and one daughter, Mrs. Lena Cook, Vancouver, and one son, Ernest, in England.

Also surviving are two stepsons, Charles and Harold Pettman, and six grandchildren, as well as two brothers in England—Walter and Luther. He was predeceased by a daughter in 1920.

Funeral service will be Friday at 2 p.m. at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, with Ven. D. S. Catchpole officiating. Burial will be in the family plot at the Kelowna cemetery.

Fallbearers will be members of the Sons of England. Kelowna Funeral Directors have been entrusted with the arrangements.

Should Names Be Published In Connection With Court

Over in Victoria recently a doctor wrote to the Victoria Times taking exception to the use of names where a medical man had been charged by the police with an offence. The argument was that, whether guilty or innocent was eventually established, the mere publication of the name in connection with the charge may be sufficient to destroy the man's practice and ruin his livelihood.

The conclusion is that newspapers should refrain from publicizing such cases until guilt or innocence is determined by the court. The implication is that newspapers are at best unsympathetic, at worst hostile or malicious, in making a man's name public.

The Victoria Times comments upon the substance of the letter as follows: "Individual cases may have some support on emotional grounds. The argument fails in every other respect."

"The major purpose of a newspaper is to report the activities and events of the world and the community in which it circulates. Charges laid by the police, and incidents which take place in a public courtroom, distressing as they may be for the individual concerned, are part of the public business of a community. In reporting police and court news, the newspaper is only repeating information that has already been made available to such members of the public as cared to be present at the court sitting. Would it be logical to go to the root of the matter and insist that all business of the public courts be held in camera?"

"So much for the basic principle of news reporting. The suppression argument is then likely to shift to individual cases. This reason and that reason can be advanced why a particular case should not be publicized. But every case is a particular case for someone. The ultimate result of this reasoning could only be that no court case would be made public, and this would certainly not be in the public interest.

"There should not be immunity from publicity for some citizens and not for others. Lawyers, teachers, businessmen, tradesmen, laborers and newspapermen—no less than doctors—may suffer from association with a criminal or civil charge. Given a fair-minded community, a man of good reputation will weather such misfortune. No newspaper could operate on a basis of arbitrary censorship by its editors and retain the confidence or respect of the reading public."

"There is another aspect not often considered by advocates of protective censorship. Full publicity, within the limits of decency and libel imposed by the law, is itself a form of protection for all involved in a court case. Publishing experience around the world long ago proved that rumor can be much more destructive than factual reporting. Where the truth is deliberately hidden, scandalous exaggeration can take over and cause much greater discomfort than the real facts."

"Reporting of facts and establishment of the truth regarding what is going on in a community is one of the chief services rendered by a newspaper. It is a principle that must be observed in its entirety or not at all."

Government Only Doing Duty In Staff Retrenchment

A few weeks ago the provincial government announced a policy of retrenchment by way of a reduction in staff. This has resulted in considerable unjust criticism of the government.

Critics of the government have failed to appreciate that the provincial government does not exist to provide jobs out of public funds. This idea may be somewhat of a shock for some, but the fact is that the government is not, or should not be, an employment agency.

The government's first duty is to the taxpayers, who in the case of the province comprise the whole population. Its civil service should be no larger than is necessary to provide efficient administration. It is not a government's function to create unnecessary positions, or maintain them if they have already been created, just for the purpose of keeping people employed.

In order that a government may be able to retain a competent staff there must be an element of security which comes from permanency of appointment. That is not to be disturbed by the British Columbia government's announced policy of staff reduction. No one, according to the statement made by Mr. Bennett, is going to be fired from the civil service simply to enable the government to save money. The policy will be to drop redundant posts from the civil service list when they fall vacant, and to meet abnormal or spasmodic pressures by means of temporary appointments.

Price Is Potent Factor

Many Canadian business men and industrialists are somewhat concerned regarding the position of Britain with respect to the establishment of the European common market. Under the common market agreement the aim is to establish a system of free trade between the countries of western Europe and Britain is likely to be involved in this trading agreement.

Because of this British leaders have been somewhat cool toward the Canadian suggestion of a Commonwealth trade conference. They see the possibility that areas of conflict may arise between the two ideas of trade.

Canadians, however, have to learn to face facts in connection with trade. This country is anxious to increase its trade with Britain and other Commonwealth countries, but we have to realize that, because of our own high standard of living, our price levels have reached a point at which Britain cannot, in some instances, afford to do business with Canada. Certainly we would like to sell more of our apples and lumber, our wheat and our bacon, our butter, cheese and tobacco to Britain, but the price tags are a considerable handicap to doing business.

We cannot blame Britain, which has to import some 70 per cent of its foodstuffs, for seeking to buy in the most favorable markets. We cannot criticize Britain for refusing to enter into the international wheat agreement because the fixed price was higher than she could pay, and higher than she did have to pay for wheat requirements.

Canadians have to recognize that a high-priced economy such as ours is not conducive to increasing exports to countries which have a lower price standard. If we have priced ourselves out of the world markets for the commodities or which we have surpluses available for export, we cannot very well place the blame on other countries if they prefer to buy elsewhere.

Laughter Declared Top Weapon For Fighting Mental Diseases

LONDON (AP)—Laughter is a weapon in fighting life's long battles.

Britain's National Association for Mental Health says: "A sense of humor is the greatest help in facing difficulties of any kind, and disproportionate worry is a common symptom among neurotic people."

"People who can't laugh at themselves usually take themselves too seriously, or they may suffer from a sense of inadequacy which makes them refuse to admit that they can be foolish or wrong."

This and other conclusions are given in a booklet trying to answer the questions most frequently asked about mental health. One leading question is this:

Can present day noises—jet planes, loud TV sets, pneumatic drills, screaming automobile brakes—drive a person crazy?

"The answer is—no."

A NUISANCE "There is little evidence that these loud noises are much more than a general nuisance," said the experts.

"In some cases they may appear to be the last straw which caused the breakdown, and they may assume undue importance in patients who are really breaking down from other causes."

Still another often-asked question was:

"Does fear of sex, or an ignorance about sex, upset the balance of the mind?"

The answer:

"Where people have a mental breakdown following reaction to stress, this is often connected with sexual difficulties, as these present some of life's major problems."

The experts say a happy childhood is good insurance against mental troubles.

Business Men See Gas Area

PORT ST. JOHN, B.C. (CP)—A large number of business men were given a look recently at the northern terminus of Frank McMahon's $200,000,000 Westcoast Transmission project.

Peace River natural gas began flowing into distribution lines throughout British Columbia shortly after noon Tuesday when Premier Bennett officially opened the 650-mile pipeline in ceremonies at Vancouver.

Friday nearly 150 investment men and bankers were flown from Calgary and Vancouver to the starting point here of the 30-inch main line.

They saw producing gas and oil wells "flared" and toured the McMahon plant, an $20,000,000 industrial complex 13 miles south of here at Taylor, on the banks of the Peace River.

The installation includes a scrubbing plant, a refinery and a sulphur plant. The function of the plant is to treat "sour" gas, or gas containing liquid hydrocarbons, before it enters the pipeline. The end products are "sweet" gas for the pipeline and a number of by-products.

Space Craft Launching Site Russian Aim

LONDON (Reuters)—A Soviet scientist says Russia's ultimate aim in launching satellites is to "create a platform in the proximity of Soviet land from which it will be possible to launch space ships."

The scientist, Professor Yuri Alexandrovich Pobedonostsev, was replying over Moscow radio to questions sent in by listeners on the functions and aims of the satellite.

"It would have been premature to create such a large ship or satellite inhabited by people or equipped with the latest technical equipment necessary for sending such ships to other planets before space has been studied," the professor said.

Such problems as "the dangers of cosmic rays to living organisms in the ship" had to be studied before a large station could be created.

BELGRADE (AP)—Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defence minister, arrived here for an eight-day visit and received a singularly unspectacular welcome.

Although the visit by Russia's top soldier was hailed here as a gesture of new harmony between the armed forces of the two countries, Zhukov was given strictly the protocol treatment due a visiting defence minister from a sister Communist state.

OTTAWA REPORT

Stursberg Is P.M.'s "Ghost"

OTTAWA—Under the name "Stursberg P.M.'s Ghost" an Ottawa newspaper has just published what has been Parliament Hill gossip for many days. This rumor is that the Prime Minister has appointed Peter Stursberg to ghost-write speeches for him.

Stursberg is an ex-newspaperman and ex-radio personality who has travelled around the world in the 43 years since he was born in China. His father emigrated from Germany to work in the Chinese postal service, until he retired to British Columbia's pleasant retreat, Victoria.

There the young Stursberg got his first job with the Victoria Times. In 1938 he moved to England, under the valuable system of exchange newspaper jobs arranged by the Commonwealth Press Union. For nine months he worked on London's "Daily Herald," the official organ of the British socialist party. Back in Canada once more, he got a job at the Vancouver "Province."

In 1941 Stursberg switched to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and worked for it in various parts of Europe until 1945, when he returned to the "Daily Herald" for five years, covering mostly Middle Eastern and Asian news stories. From 1950 to 1956, he reported for the CBC from the United Nations in New York, and then he joined the Toronto "Star."

NO GHOST NEEDED BY P.M.

His rumored appointment to ghost-write for Mr. Diefenbaker has stirred up much criticism here that the grounds should be examined. These are that he has worked outside Canada for so long that he is out of touch with Canadians and their politics; that he has worked largely for workers on the political left, and hence has been trained to political reactions very different from those of the Conservatives; that our "Golden Voice of the Prairies" has amply proved that nobody can match his own speech-writing; and—sarcastically—that last June Canadians voted for a change, but it would be no change to hear the same old Stursberg commentaries so familiar over the CBC coming to us through the lips of the Prime Minister.

Much of this criticism is unfounded; some of it stems from jealousy. But even Conservatives complain that they know as little about Canada; that they know about Canada; that they know even remember his unusual name which sounds so like an order at a hot dog stand; and that his background must lead to thinking considerably more left-wing than what would be desirable in a Conservative prime minister.

Hence the wags have dubbed the reputed ghost as "the short-order socialist."

RUMORS—JUST RUMORS

This speculation is at least premature, because Peter Stursberg has not yet been officially appointed to act as ghost or in any other role on the Prime Minister's staff.

ter's staff. He will certainly never be created an official Edgar Bergen to use Mr. Diefenbaker as his Charlie McCarthy, which is what the Ottawa newspaper report could have implied. Of course any busy man in public life today needs a staff to research the material for his speeches, even though a gifted courtroom orator like the Right Hon. John Diefenbaker does not need anyone to round the phrases for him.

This kind of work is what Peter Stursberg, with his world-wide experience, could do with almost effortless ability. So a vacancy which he might fill is the significant one of research assistant in the ministry of national defence, a post formerly held under Liberal Minister Ralph Campney by Vancouver newspaperman Erwin Kreutzweiser.

The late Mackenzie King's ventures into that particular realm of ghosts is still recollected with amusement here. He called upon one of Canada's greatest masters of the English language, Leonard Brockington, to ghost-write speeches for him. But he quickly unloaded that genius when it became obvious that his product was too good to be "King."

Ottawa folklore tells that the ex-ghost lamented: "I thought I was called to Ottawa to be general practitioner to the body politic of the Liberal Party, but found that I was expected to debase my talents as oratorical midwife to an intellectual virgin."

addition to the present roster of Kelowna Civic Artists. Miss Kittell is especially suited to a small theatre such as the Empress, because her work is intimate, exquisitely funny and beautifully sensitive. She is called America's first lady of ballet clowning.

The first concert is announced for November 28 with Ruth Slenczynska the artist. The remaining dates will be announced to Civic members on receipt of their membership cards.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Is Sharing Home With Bachelor Proper When Husband Absent?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have read your column for some time and respect your sincere and candid opinions. I would greatly appreciate your thoughts on the following:

My sister Jean was recently married to a young man whose family lives in England. Bob (I'll call him) has a younger brother Roy, who is coming to this country.

Bob and Jean are looking for an apartment large enough to accommodate themselves and Roy when he arrives. They feel it would be unkind of them not to take Roy into their home. This in itself might be all right; but as Bob is the Merchant Marines, he is home only eight days a month. This would mean that for most of the time, Jean and her brother-in-law would be sharing the apartment. Jean is 21 and Roy is 20.

BRIDE'S SISTER FEELS CONCERN

I have told Jean that I feel it is improper for Roy to stay with them in these circumstances. But she and her husband express the opinion that I am narrow-minded and suspicious—as is anyone, they say, who would see anything wrong in this "boy" (they call him) living with them.

I've suggested that they find an apartment or room for Roy close by; and offer him every assistance in making business and social contacts. In other words, do everything to help him make his home here—but don't start him off on the wrong foot in the situation. I do hope that you will advise us. Thank you—S.S.

POSSIBLE REASONS FOR SUCH VENTURE

DEAR S.S.: You write from a great city. And it may be Bob's idea that Jean, being so young, should have a reliable protector on the premises, while he is off at sea. Also, Jean may welcome such company, as a sort of antidote to loneliness during Bob's absence. Possibly that's why they insist upon finding an apartment with room for Roy.

Or they may figure that Roy would be a financial help to them in the role of star boarder, after he latches on to a job here. They may estimate that his contribution to household expenses would permit them to save a little money regularly—for investment; or for home-buying later.

Or, more improbably, it may be pure stubborn sentiment in Bob's heart—a conviction that he owes his brother 100 percent hospitality or his arrival here, and indefinitely afterwards. But in any case, whatever his and Jean's reasons for planning the three-way set-up, they are making a mistake if they go through with it.

SUCH A SET-UP IS INADVISABLE

Let's be frank. If Jean and Roy live as domestic companions during Bob's sea trips, they will be occupying, and accepting, a situation known to theologians as a "proximate occasion" of sin. They will have thrown prudence to the winds in dealing with the stuff of human nature—which is weak, variable and vulnerable at best.

Second, even if their moral character should be incorruptible, still people would be sure to gossip about appearances—thus costing all three a general loss of social tone in the community. The situation would become the butt of smirching jest and innuendo. And that sort of thing is felt by the victims, and becomes an insidious drain on their own self-confidence and self-esteem.

Therefore, I agree with you that it doesn't make sense to do that kind of damage to oneself. And one isn't being narrow-minded and suspicious in taking this view of the matter. One simply is being realistic about the way things are.

Your own suggestion provides the right-minded mature answer to the question. Namely: line up lodgings nearby for Roy, and give him every assistance in making friends and finding a job.—M.H.

LET'S EAT

Favorite Dish Is Served In The Ancient Tradition At Festival

BY IDA BAILEY ALLEN

All the world celebrates and gives thanks for the autumn harvest.

One very interesting celebration is that of the Hebrews who combine the autumn thanksgiving festival with the holidays of Succoth.

HEBREW WORD "Succoth" is a Hebrew word meaning huts or booths.

As a symbol and reminder of the fragile shelters of the children of Israel during their 40 years' wandering in the wilderness, synagogues, temples and groups of neighbors erect booths outdoors or indoors. They garland them with vines, bunches of grapes, add red and green apples, ears of corn and pumpkins, and eat under the shelter. MINUTIA BOOTH

Or a table setting may have a centerpiece of a miniature "Succah" or booth decorated with greens. On each side of this setting are large platters of fruit, strudel, mandelbrot (almond slices) and dishes of candy. Sacramental cups of wine are arranged on a tray.

DINNER IN THE TRADITION OFF SUCCOTH Before dinner, the mother lights the candles in the Succah or booth, and the father blesses and says grace over the wine and the bread, both always provided in the ancient tradition.

Canada's Gift To Queen Still Guarded As A State Secret

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government has a gift for the Queen. But just what it is remains a state secret.

An external affairs department spokesman said Canada's present to the Queen is being guarded as a surprise. The time and date of the presentation also are being withheld.

As is customary, Buckingham Palace has indicated that the Queen cannot accept gifts from organizations or individuals. But state gifts are something else. And so are flowers.

During the royal visit here Oct. 12-16, the Queen will receive official presentations of at least three bouquets. Two mayors' wives and two as yet unidentified school children will present flowers to the Queen. On Tuesday, Mrs. Thomasplane crash or explosion.

Smartly sleek and slinky is this striking dinner dress. The peau de sole is draped spirally from a cuffed, camisole neckline to good effect. ### KEEP IN TRIM

HOW DO YOU MEASURE UP?

BY IDA JEAN KAIN

Figure measurements vary with individual structure. Symmetry is the key . . . and that means balanced proportions with an harmonious relation of parts.

To explain . . . we all inherit a certain body build and normal variations in the way fat is distributed. Measurement charts to the contrary, there can be no one perfect set of measurements for a given height. While we might yearn to be long-stemmed and willowy with "model" proportions, most of us are just not built that way. But with weight at healthy normal for structure, harmony of proportion can give a better than average figure.

Test for harmony of your proportions. Use the bust measurement as the gauge. The waistline is rightly proportioned at 10 to 12 inches smaller than the bust circumference. The average difference is 8 1/2 inches. There should be only a slight curve of the abdomen. Ideally, this measurement should be from one-half to two and a half inches smaller than the bust circumference. Alas, this measurement increases with excess weight. Slumped posture and flabby abdominal muscles add to the spread.

The hip measurement will vary with body type. Ultra-streamlined hips measure the same as the bust. Hips that measure from 1 to 2 inches larger than the bust are termed average. Hips that measure 3 to 4 inches larger than the bust are full.

Be sure to take correct measurements to get the facts about your figure. To make the test accurate, here are the rules: The bust measurement should be taken over a properly fitted bra. Circle tape around back and under arms, and bring it together at the center of the bust at the level of maximum curve. Take a deep breath, exhale—measure.

Next, circle tape around your natural waistline. To determine where to measure, tie a string around the middle . . . where it settles is your natural waistline. To determine the abdominal extension circle tape around body to include the curve of the abdomen at the level of greatest protuberance, as viewed from the side.

Last, the hips. To get the full measure, circle tape around lower hips at the largest part to include the buttocks. Body type is inherited, and your normal weight depends on whether you have a small, medium or large frame. It is true that with overweight, all your measurements will be too ample but, more than likely, some will be more out of proportion than others.

Aim at normal weight and symmetry of measurements. Then be fashion-wise and compliment the effect by selecting clothes with the right lines for you — and you'll have your "ideal" figure.

Braves Made Topdogs In Sixth Game Bets

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Haney's batting Milwaukee Braves ruled the 2-0 favorite today to win the World Series as they faced the New York Yankees in the sixth game needing only one more victory to clinch it.

With the weatherman predicting clear skies, after three straight wet days in New York, a capacity crowd of some 67,000 was expected to be on hand at Yankee Stadium to see a return match between Bob Buhl of the Braves and Bob Turley of the Yankees.

Yankees, needing a victory to stay alive, were handicapped by the absence of their celebrated centre fielder, Mickey Mantle, who has a torn tendon in his right shoulder. Milwaukee also had a top flight star on the sidelines in second baseman Red Schoendienst, who has a pulled groin muscle.

SPAHN HAS GRIPPE

Braves, who lead the series three games to two, were eager to wrap it up today because of the uncertain physical condition of Warren Spahn, their ace pitcher. Spahn, considered a certainty to pitch the seventh game, if it were needed, currently is laid low by a slight case of the grippie and upper respiratory inflammation, leaving his future participation in the series in doubt.

Late Tuesday night, the veteran lefthander was undecided whether to obey the command of the Braves physician to remain in bed and watch this afternoon's event on television. Should the Yankees win today and there is no improvement in Spahn's condition, the chances are that Lew Burdette, who has already beaten Yankees twice, will try to become a three-time winner.

KUCKS AILS TOO

Yankees also had a pitcher hors de combat in Johnny Kucks. The young right-hander spent Tuesday in a hospital, wrestling with a case of the flu—not the Asian kind—and he is not expected to see action today or Thursday.

The Yankees' other invalid, first baseman Bill (Moose) Skowron, felt a little better although his sacroiliac muscle is still painful. The Moose, who has missed the entire series with the exception of the first two innings of the opener, said he can pinch-hit but cannot possibly play in the field.

Mantle, alarmed when he woke up Tuesday and found he could hardly raise his right arm, was whisked to a hospital where x-rays showed there were no breaks or bone damage in his right shoulder but that he suffered a torn cartilage. The condition stemmed from his collision with Schoendienst at second in the first inning of the third game in Milwaukee.

WOUND TIME TO HEAL

Glum over the diagnosis, Mantle said the injury was worse than he originally feared. "I don't think it will be okay for the series, no matter how long it goes," he said. "Those things take a long time to heal." Schoendienst was just as downcast over his injury. After a visit to a local doctor, he said:

"It's worse than it was yesterday. I don't see how I can play any more in the series. I had a similar injury four years ago and it kept me out 10 days." With Mantle and Skowron out, the Yankees were without an extra bats hit or a run-batted-in during the series, Yankee manager Casey Stengel sought desperately to inject some more punch into his lineup. He finally settled for one new face.

Casey benched Harry Simpson with another lefthanded hitter, Joe Collins, at first base. Simpson has been the batting bust of the series with one hit in nine times at bat.

The rest of the lineup was the same that lost the 1-0 heart-breaker to Burdette Monday in Milwaukee. Tony Kubek was Mantle's replacement in centre. Enos Slaughter was in left field and rookie Jerry Lumpe at third base. Jerry Coleman, who took the blame for Monday's loss when he deliberated too long in fielding Eddie Mathews' infield single, which eventually was converted into the only run of the game, was back at second base. "I won't take him (Coleman) out," Stengel said Tuesday after rain postponed workouts by both teams. "It would look as though I was punishing him and I don't want that."

MANAGERS CHEERFUL

Both managers appeared cheerful despite the injuries that have hobbled their teams. Stengel, confident Turley would tame the Braves today, already has earmarked Don Larsen as his seventh game pitcher. "And we'll be in it," said the grizzled pilot.

Haney was in a jovial mood despite the knowledge that Schoendienst was a definite and Spahn a possible loss for the rest of the series.

"I don't expect it to go seven games," the Milwaukee skipper said. "Even with Red out, we're in pretty good shape."

This was Haney's way of expressing confidence in Felix Mantilla, who replaced Schoendienst at second early in Monday's game and gave a fine account of himself in the field.

LEFTHANDED LINEUP

"Mantilla will lead off," Haney said, and added he would use his lefthanded lineup with Frank Torre replacing Joe Adcock at first and Bob Hazle supplanting Andy Pafko in right.

This was the second series start for both Buhl and Turley. The pair started and lasted briefly in the third game, only to be replaced by the classic so far. Buhl retired only two batters in a three-run first inning. Turley lasted an inning and two-thirds. Both were wild. Yankees went on to win, 12-3, behind Larsen's stout relief pitching, while the Braves used six pitchers.

Casey's decision to use Turley, as his last hope today, was occasioned by the fireballer's strong performance in relief on Monday. Pitching the eighth inning, Bob retired the side on 10 pitches, getting the last two Braves on strikeouts.

National League All Spread Out

BROOKLYN (AP)—The shift of the Dodgers from Brooklyn to Los Angeles and the Giants from New York to San Francisco means the National League will open its 1958 season with clubs in these cities: Los Angeles, San Francisco, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Cincinnati, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

PCL's Changing Picture Looks Cloudier Today

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Sun-Times reported that Leslie O'Connor, president of the Pacific Coast League, said that the Brooklyn Dodgers franchise shift to Los Angeles means "the end of the PCL."

O'Connor, at his home in nearby Crystal Lake, said he would contact Pacific Coast League club owners and call a meeting, probably later this month, to discuss the arrival of the Dodgers at Los Angeles and the New York Giants at San Francisco.

The Sun-Times said O'Connor said he cannot see how the PCL can continue because "we lose three clubs—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Hollywood—and San Diego is in the Los Angeles orbit and Sacramento is only 90 miles from San Francisco."

The newspaper quoted O'Connor as saying the day will soon come when the American and National leagues will expand to 12 teams each—with added representation on the west coast. It said O'Connor was not pleased with the shift of the Giants and Dodgers "the way it was handled."

"The west coast is entitled to major league baseball, but I wish we could get more than we're receiving now," O'Connor was quoted by the Sun-Times.

O'Connor said PCL clubs had been braced for a long time for the arrival of the National League teams on the coast. When news of the Dodgers shift was announced Tuesday, he said, "Nobody died of shock."

Happy Home Run Hit By Mr. and Mrs.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. Dick Gullion, ardent world series fans, announced the arrival of their fourth child today with this baseball-language announcement in the Niagara Falls Review:

"Gullion—the birth of a baby girl to Ruth and Dick Gullion now gives them a well-balanced team. The new addition was welcomed at the Greater Niagara stadium (meaning hospital) Oct. 6, just before game time. The two happy coaches are certain the addition will win the series for them."

The Gullions now have two boys and two girls.

Sugar Jim Goes To W'peg Maroons

WINNIPEG (CP) — James (Sugar Jim) Henry, 37, former National Hockey League goalkeeper, will play this season with Winnipeg Maroons senior hockey team, club officials announced today.

Henry played with New York Rangers, Chicago Black Hawks and Boston Bruins in the NHL.

Coach Jack O'Reilly's Packers meted out defeat to their second professional team in their exhibition encounter last night, handing the Victoria Cougars a decisive, 3-1 pasting before 725 fans.

Coach Colin Kilburn juggled his line-up throughout the game in an endeavor to produce some scoring spark out of his Cougars, but found the tough back-checking and smooth defence work of the Packers an impenetrable fortress.

It was first blood in senior company for young Jack Howard, home-brew centre man, who picked up an assist on one of the three counters.

The forward lines for the Packers saw the third stringers start the game, and the No. 1 lines come away fast on two and three man rushes.

O'Reilly juggled his lines in Kilburn, Gordon Wilson and Fred Brown seemed to have trouble trying to get away on the Jim Middleton, Joe Kaiser and Brian Roche combination, and the dangerous Packer trio scored two of the three goals while this line was on the ice.

FORMER OSHL PLAYERS
Kilburn's second line of Larry Berg and Doug Kilburn, both former OSHL players, was centred by Gordon Hawthorth, and faced the Moe Young, Ray Powell and Mike Durban combination. This line also back-checked well, and the lone counter, scored while they were on, was one of those deflected shots that make a goalie's life more miserable.

The No. 1 line of Larry Leach, Hook Gibson and Doug Macauley was adequately held down by Greg Jablonski on the left wing, Bugs Jones and Jack Howard alternating at centre, and Bill Swarbrick on the right side. It was this first Packers line that engineered the second goal, with Howard getting the assist on the slap-shot not by defence man Harry Smith.

Tough On Goalie

The Packers defence were far superior to the Cougars, whose loose work made it tough on young Don Hamilton in the nets. The young net-minder, just up from junior ranks, got most of his support from Carl Kaiser and Nelson Bullock, but was forced to stop a lot of rubber.

The Packers' quintette of Andy McCallum, Pat Coburn, Harry Smith, Al Pyett and Orv Lavell played airtight hockey, giving goalie Dave Gatherum beautiful support in a game that could easily have gone for a shut-out.

As Pat Coburn said, after the game, however, "This game is supposed to get harder as the years go on, but when you've got forwards checking back like this club, it makes a defence man's job a cinch."

Goalie Dave Gatherum showed up best on two lone breaks, when he came away out to cut angle down, on one occasion stopping old pro Colin Kilburn in his tracks. On a couple of occasions in the third frame, the Cougars just missed scoring chances on a temporarily unattended goal, but good clearing kept the danger to a minimum.

Brian Roche scored the opening counter at 8:52 of the penalty-free first period, flipping in a picture goal after he had seduced Hamilton from his net on a goal-mouth pass from Joe Kaiser.

Smith drove in his slap-shot at 13:26 of the period, the rubber touching nothing on the way in.

COUGARS PRESSING

Two minutes later the Cougars were pressing, and Matheson slipped the puck across to Carl Kaiser on the other point. Kaiser let a looping drive go that Gatherum had his eye on, but Hawthorth raised his stick blade slightly, and deflected the rubber in.

In the final frame, the Cougars' tempers were flaring, and Colin Kilburn went to the sin-bin for high-sticking leaving the Packers an opportunity to try a power play. Kaiser, Middleton and Roche put on a highly effective surge, but stout work by the Cougars in clearing held the threat off.

Twenty seconds after Kilburn came back on, Roche worked in with Kaiser and Middleton, let go a hard shot that bounced off Hamilton's pads, and Kaiser snapped up the rebound, sinking the insurance marker.

Summary

First period — Kelowna, Roche (Kaiser), 8:52. Kelowna, Smith (Howard), 13:26. Victoria, Hawthorth (Matheson, Kaiser), 15:01. No penalties.

Second period — No scoring. Penalties: Smith (elb), 2:16. Leach (elb), 15:40. Smith (int), 18:58.

Third period — Kelowna, Kaiser (Roche), 10:35. Penalties, C. Kilburn (high sticking), 14:15. C. Kilburn, McCallum (roughing), 17:22.

Monster Just Fish, All Same Oogopogo?

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the most widely read authorities on Quebec's outdoor life is inclined to go along with a theory that the monster of Lake Pohonegamook is a sturgeon.

G. H. Carpenter, executive editor of the Montreal Gazette whose wildlife column appears under the pseudonym Izaak Hunter, relates in today's paper an incident that may solve the identity of "the thing" reported from Kamouraska County.

From what friends have told him—and he is known to hundreds in the province's most rugged areas—the angling world needn't have the shudders. Some years ago a priest in the vicinity of the lake "had a sort of farm fish pond," writes Izaak Hunter.

Into this water he introduced some sturgeon, perhaps with a view of producing caviar or other forms of food yielded by the sturgeon which abounds in waters of the province.

"A sturgeon, as we all know, grows to an enormous size under favorable conditions, running up into the hundreds of pounds. The opinion of some of my friends is that one or more of the priest's sturgeon escaped, as I'm told they will might have, and took up residence in Lake Phenegamook to was fat and fearsome. The sturgeon has a saw-toothed row of horny plates along his back, which would seem to support this theory."

This line also back-checked well, and the lone counter, scored while they were on, was one of those deflected shots that make a goalie's life more miserable.

The No. 1 line of Larry Leach, Hook Gibson and Doug Macauley was adequately held down by Greg Jablonski on the left wing, Bugs Jones and Jack Howard alternating at centre, and Bill Swarbrick on the right side. It was this first Packers line that engineered the second goal, with Howard getting the assist on the slap-shot not by defence man Harry Smith.

Tough On Goalie

The Packers defence were far superior to the Cougars, whose loose work made it tough on young Don Hamilton in the nets. The young net-minder, just up from junior ranks, got most of his support from Carl Kaiser and Nelson Bullock, but was forced to stop a lot of rubber.

The Packers' quintette of Andy McCallum, Pat Coburn, Harry Smith, Al Pyett and Orv Lavell played airtight hockey, giving goalie Dave Gatherum beautiful support in a game that could easily have gone for a shut-out.

As Pat Coburn said, after the game, however, "This game is supposed to get harder as the years go on, but when you've got forwards checking back like this club, it makes a defence man's job a cinch."

Goalie Dave Gatherum showed up best on two lone breaks, when he came away out to cut angle down, on one occasion stopping old pro Colin Kilburn in his tracks. On a couple of occasions in the third frame, the Cougars just missed scoring chances on a temporarily unattended goal, but good clearing kept the danger to a minimum.

Brian Roche scored the opening counter at 8:52 of the penalty-free first period, flipping in a picture goal after he had seduced Hamilton from his net on a goal-mouth pass from Joe Kaiser.

Smith drove in his slap-shot at 13:26 of the period, the rubber touching nothing on the way in.

COUGARS PRESSING

Two minutes later the Cougars were pressing, and Matheson slipped the puck across to Carl Kaiser on the other point. Kaiser let a looping drive go that Gatherum had his eye on, but Hawthorth raised his stick blade slightly, and deflected the rubber in.

In the final frame, the Cougars' tempers were flaring, and Colin Kilburn went to the sin-bin for high-sticking leaving the Packers an opportunity to try a power play. Kaiser, Middleton and Roche put on a highly effective surge, but stout work by the Cougars in clearing held the threat off.

Twenty seconds after Kilburn came back on, Roche worked in with Kaiser and Middleton, let go a hard shot that bounced off Hamilton's pads, and Kaiser snapped up the rebound, sinking the insurance marker.

Summary

Wanted - Recruits For Art Of Pugilistic Endeavor

By GEORGE INGLIS

Recruits are being sought to help in the formation of a gymnastic and boxing group here—one of the best pieces of news heard in some time.

Should there prove to be sufficient interest in the move, the club will be formed this Thursday night in the city hall, and a vital entity will be added to the city's sports calendar.

There are a number of interested citizens behind the plan of giving the youngsters a chance to learn the manly art of fist-cuffs, and the graceful and muscle-building gymnastic work.

We can't speak personally about the gymnastic end of the proposed club, since our memories of that type of work consist of more than a decade in the armed forces, being screamed at by irate physical training instructors who likened us to giraffes, camels, and some rather unprintable colloquialisms. However, we have seen some of the fine results of an interest in that line of endeavor, and fully appreciate the value of calisthenics as an aid to body health.

Don't for one moment get the impression we are entirely unversed in the art of tumbling and mat work, however. There was a time when we used to watch the Land Army girls . . . but that's another story.

MORE AUTHORITY

We can speak with more authority on the manly art, however, and have deprecated the fact that it has not been on the sports calendar of the city these past few years.

Contrary to the belief of some well-intentioned parents that boxing is a brutal and bloody past-time, there is no individual participation sport we know of which can have as beneficial effects on youth—provided it is engaged in sensibly and with proper supervision.

The type of boy who should go in for boxing as a sport ranges from the clumsy, heavily-muscled lad to the spindly lad with the milk-white skin and the pipe-stem arms.

The bulky built young lad will learn grace and poise from the setting-up exercises and the concentration on form that is part of the sport, and the slighter copy will add to his stature and bulk through the same avenue.

The shy and retiring youth, who dreads facing his fellows, will learn to walk erectly and look at the world from a proud position, gaining a confidence from his ability to prove himself with his new-found skill that he might never gain elsewhere.

The whole purpose of boxing is aimed at making a better man and more useful citizen of a boy. This is true in every sport, if engaged in properly, but in boxing it is even more so.

A quick and alert mind, one of the happiest faculties of any adult citizen, are a must in the sport. A schooled aggressiveness, vital to any useful citizen, is taught from the moment the youngster first enters the ring. A persistence in endeavor, too-often overlooked in a boy's training, is part and parcel of the sport.

TWO SIDES

Unfortunately, these finer aspects of the sport are too often overlooked, and the coarser aspects emphasized. The average citizen is inclined to look on a "pug" as a stumbling, incoherent, faded copy of a man, largely because the broken-down pugilist who journeyed too often to the well is more easily recognized than his counterpart who gained immeasurable benefits from the sport.

As in any other sport, there are the mercenary-minded, the opportunists, the flesh-peddlers and spoilers actively engaged in tearing down all that is fine in the sport. This will never be changed as long as humans engage in sports.

There are the braying jackasses on the side-lines also, who look at the flow of claret that often accompanies a match between two highly trained fighters, and pronounce it "brutal". Most of these critics issue more lasting punishment with their tongue than the average fighter does in his life-time.

If the men in this town, however, who have engaged in the sport of the squared circle, whether as a youth in school or the "Y", in the armed forces; in university, or in straight competitive fighting, were to gather together in one room it would have to be a very large room. It would startle some of the citizens, also, to see just who was numbered in the group.

STAGE IS SET

The idea has gone beyond the planning stage now, and is ready for execution as soon as the club administration can be formed, at this meeting in city hall tomorrow night. All those interested in helping foster this sport will be cordially welcomed.

The problem of space, one of the biggest stumbling blocks in the past few years in many gymnasium-located sports, has been solved by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, who have volunteered the use of a room on Monday nights.

The backers of the club have the funds necessary, and are planning to stage their registration and organizational meeting on Monday, Oct. 21.

All they need this Thursday night is the men to do the boys' job.

POLICE COURT

Fine of $50 plus cost was levied in city police court last week on Joseph Sokoluk, who was charged as being a minor in a beer-parlor.

Charged as a minor in unlawful possession of liquor, Llewellyn Thompson was fined $20 and costs in magistrate's court last week.

Two logging truck operators—A. C. MacLellan and Paul Chase—were fined $50 each, plus costs, when they appeared in district police court last week for carrying loads heavier than allowed by law.

Two juvenile boys who made false statements as to their age in applying for hunting licences, were fined $20, plus costs, each, in juvenile court last week.

Charged with a third offence of being intoxicated in a public place, Arthur Dupuis was sentenced, in city police court Monday, to 30 days imprisonment.

Pleading guilty to a charge of having exceeded the 50 miles an hour highway speed limit near Winfield, James Alfred Catt was fined $50 plus $4 costs in district court Monday. His driver's licence was suspended six months.

Fine of $30, plus $5 costs, was imposed in city police court Monday on James Alfred Catt for having liquor in a restaurant.

Fine of $25, plus costs of $4, and an endorsed driver's licence, was the sequel in district court Monday to a charge of exceeding the 50 miles an hour speed limit on Highway 97, near Winfield, laid against George Everett Stringer.

A second offence charge of being intoxicated in a public place resulted in a fine of $25, plus costs of $5.50, for Harold Munroe, Vancouver. Fine was imposed in city court Tuesday.

Pleading guilty to speeding in a school zone at Burnaby, John Wayne, bridge worker, Kelowna, was fined $10, plus costs of $4, in district police court Tuesday.

Appearing in district police court Monday for operating a motor vehicle in a manner that contravened restrictions on his driver's licence, Clyde Howell Ross, 19, was fined $10, plus $4 costs.

Failure to stop at a stop sign in Rutland cost John Andrew Anderson a fine of $10 plus costs of $4 in district police court Monday.

Pleading guilty to a charge of exceeding the 50 miles an hour highway speed limit near Wood Lake, Alfred Charles Mash was fined $25, plus $4 costs, and had his driver's licence endorsed.

FIRES FOR DOUBLE

New York shortstop Gil McDougald fires the ball to first after getting Milwaukee Braves' Johnny Logan at second in the front end of a fifth inning double play at the second World Series game in New York. Second baseman Jerry Coleman backs up McDougald. Alleged beanballs thrown by Yankee reliever Art Ditmar were protested by Braves, who warned they would retaliate if Yanks continued.

Lindsay And Hall
'Hawk Dividends

CHICAGO (CP) — The trade that brought Ted Lindsay and Glen Hall to Chicago Black Hawks paid quick dividends when the two paced the Hawks to a 2-0 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs Tuesday night in the first game of the National Hockey League season.

Left-winger Lindsay counted the game's only goal and goalie Hall made 26 stops, several spectacular, as the Hawks prevailed 11-10 in a bruising game. Lindsay and Hall were acquired from Detroit Red Wings during the summer and were two of the six new faces the Hawks showed in their 18-man lineup.

Lindsay, who along with Hall was named to the league's first team all-stars last year, sparked several rushes with linemates Eddie Litzenberger and Eric Nesterenko, a former Leaf.

Just past the 15-minute mark in the second period he took a pass from Litzenberger at mid-ice, sliced across the Leaf net and backhanded the puck past Ed Chadwick.

That margin stood the rest of the way though both teams had good opportunities because of frequent penalties.

Toronto, minus four players through illness and injury, slowed down in the early part of the third period but Chadwick, who turned back 21 shots, took up the slack.

Toronto renewed its attack in the closing minutes and rookie coach Billy Reay yanked Chadwick with 48 seconds left. Leafs managed to keep the puck in the Chicago zone but couldn't beat Hall.

Tod Sloan showed best for the Leafs, who finished last season in fifth spot, a notch ahead of Chicago. Sloan, a winger, was moved to centre between Dick Duff and George Armstrong when three Toronto centres came down with flu.

The three, rookie Frank Mahovlich, Billy Harris and Brian Cullen, may be available when the Leafs make their next start.

WILLIE SET A NEW RECORD FOR EARNINGS BY MOUNTING IN 1956 WITH $2,248,255, NOW HE'S THREATENING ARCADIS RECORD OF 40 STAKES WINNING.

Expansion The Answer
—NL's Warren Giles

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP) — With Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants now officially headed for the west coast, National League president Warren Giles today said expansion to 10 or 12 team leagues is the next logical step for further changes in the major league baseball map.

"I don't know of any club now considering relocation," said Giles. "If any cities not now included in the major league baseball makeup are to have major league baseball it would seem to have to come through expansion, not additional franchise transfers."

Giles, commenting on the Dodgers' decision Tuesday to follow the Giants, Boston Braves, St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics in franchise shifts which have rearranged the baseball map since 1953, said expansion has been discussed frequently and for some time by the majors on an informal basis.

NO IMMEDIATE MOVE

He added, however, that there "has been no sentiment favoring expansion at the present time in the National League."

While expansion to 10 team leagues or to three leagues, has been most frequently mentioned in baseball circles, some owners and officials now favor two 12-team leagues as the final answer. With 12 team setups, each league would be divided into eastern and western divisions. The two division winners in each league would play off for the league championship and those two winners then would meet in the world series.

WILL GO WEST

The Dodgers, in anything but a surprise move, formally announced Tuesday that club directors and stockholders had "unanimously agreed that the necessary steps be taken to draft the Los Angeles territory."

The announcement came within 24 hours of action by the Los Angeles city council approving an acceptable offer to the Dodgers, swapping a 300-acre chunk of accessible Chavez Ravine for Brooklyn-owned Wrigley Field in Los Angeles.

New York Mayor Robert Wagner, however, had barely waved the Dodgers goodbye than he announced he would appoint a committee in the next few days to start a campaign to lure another National League team to New York.

Still to be settled is the amount of damages to be paid by the Giants and Dodgers to the Pacific Coast League, and its Los Angeles and San Francisco clubs, for invasion of its territory.

ROOKIE STAR

Hitting and fielding star of the World Series is Milwaukee's rookie left-hander, Wes Covington. He boosted his series average to .500 and triggered the game-winning single, in the second inning of the second World Series contest. In addition, Covington's brilliant backhanded catch of Bobby Shantz' fly in second inning was termed by manager Fred Haney as the turning point of the game.

Men Agree
Job Stinks

PENTICTON (CP) — Two Pentiction waterworks employees decided their job stinks.

Sent to prepare a hills cabin as a camp for repair crews, they found it already occupied—by two skunks.

"One of them took aim and sprayed one man with its perfume," Mayor Charles E. Oliver told city council Monday night. "I don't know now whether we can use that shack as a camp."

TRADE LICENCES

City Council Monday night granted a trade licence to Maxwell Gyles Turner to operate a travel service, known as Kelowna Travel Service, at 235 Bernard Avenue.

WESTBANK—Terry Hopkins, A.C. 2, now stationed at the RCAF base at Trenton, Ontario, will be a member of the guard of honor when the Queen visits Ottawa this month for the opening of parliament. His friends will probably be able to recognize him when the guard is shown on television, as his place in the ranks brings him into the front row.
Terry's brother Ted, now serving in the Canadian army, will leave Kingston on October 14, as he is being posted to the Canadian contingent of the U.N. police force now in the Middle East.
The Catholic Women's League is holding a bake sale, with a drawing for a prize, on the afternoon of Saturday, October 12, at the Westbank Frozen Food Lockers.
Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Garrard and son Clifford, of Vancouver, spent the weekend at the home of Mrs. Peers, Lakeview Heights.
John Paynter is at present in the Kelowna hospital.

Miss Margaret Frank, of Rivers, Manitoba, has been visiting her friend, Miss Ethel Mackay.
Jack Lynn spent the weekend at his home in Kelowna. He is in the employ of the B.C. Forest Service and is being transferred from Kamloops to Horseshy.
Mr. Roy Sandberg is now home from hospital, where he had been taken as the result of a logging accident in which his knee was injured.

Century Motors Changes Hands
Change in ownership has taken place in the business formerly operated at Century Motors at Bernard and St. Paul.
The last remaining garage on Bernard now will be known as Siegfried's Service. New operator is Siegfried Lanzinger, who has been operating the Junction Service at Rutland for the past year.
He takes over from J. W. Campbell and E. L. Shannon, who came here from Calgary to take over the business nearly three years ago. Mr. Shannon is returning to Calgary but Mr. Campbell's plans still are indefinite.
Mr. Lanzinger said he would not have the General Motors Buick-Pontiac agency for the time being, at least. But he intends to deal in used cars, a business he operated at Junction Service.
HERE THREE YEARS
An Austrian immigrant, Mr. Lanzinger came to Kelowna a little over three years ago and his first job was in the garage where he now is the owner of the business.
His application for a trade license was approved by city council Monday night.

Ham Operator Says Moon Sends Code
HAMILTON (CP)—Baden Langton, an amateur radio operator, said he received moderately strong signals from the Russian satellite Monday night from 8:08 to 8:45 p.m. EDT.
Monday night's signals were the usual beeping sound, he said, but Sunday night's transmission gave way to a signal sounding like coded information.

LENGTHY TRIAL
Logger Fined $200 On Mischief Charge
In a trial in magistrate's court that lasted more than a day, a Westbank logger employed as a driver was fined $200 when convicted on a charge of creating a public mischief.
Despite the denial of Harry "Curly" Derickson, 30, Stipendiary Magistrate Donald White adjured him to be the driver of the pickup truck that rolled over on a road in the Indian Reserve and caused a serious back injury to another Indian.
Magistrate White described the action of Derickson in blaming the other Indian—Albert Wilson—for the accident as "a deliberate act."
Derickson had contended that he was at home sleeping at the time of the accident and suspected that Wilson had taken the truck keys from his pocket during a drinking party.
CONTRADICTION
The hearing of evidence and the summation of the defence and prosecution actually had concluded late Monday afternoon, but the magistrate postponed his adjudication until yesterday morning, in the face of the mass of contradictory testimony he had to wade through.
The magistrate said that in his opinion the crown witnesses had nothing to gain by perjuring themselves. The chief crown witnesses were Wilson, his wife, Grace, and his sister, Dorothy Wilson.
All admitted being in the truck at the time of the accident. Wilson was two weeks in the hospital and still is in a plaster cast from his waist to his arm pits. The truck, which had been purchased by Derickson only hours before the accident, was fairly heavily damaged.
CLAIMED PERJURY
Defence counsel Robert Hayman, in his summation, described the Wilsons as "prejudiced witnesses" and claimed they were committing perjury to get him (Wilson) "off the hook for a potential charge of theft of a car."
C. T. R. Tobiasen, who prosecuted for the crown, in his summation, contended that a

Amend Bylaw To Protect Home Owners
(Courier's Vernon Bureau)
VERNON—City council Tuesday night took steps to block a loophole in the present building by-laws after hearing a petition from home owners living in the Lakeview subdivision of the city.
A delegation headed by Cecil Clark, Jr., presented a petition asking council to amend the present by-law to prevent the moving of old homes to class 'A' residential areas of the city such as the Lakeview subdivision.
Signed by the majority of home owners in Lakeview, the petition was drawn up when an old home recently was moved onto a lot in the new subdivision.
Mr. Clark told council on behalf of the 40 home owners who signed the petition, that old homes degraded the value of the properties already established and that the Lakeview subdivision was established as a class 'A' residential area with home owners' lots valued as much as $2,100.
Council was unanimous class 'A' residential areas should be kept as such and moved to meet immediately with the city collector and amend the present by-law.

Vernon Tax Collections All-Time High
(Courier's Vernon Bureau)
VERNON—Dollar-wise and percentage-wise tax collections in Vernon for the period January to September 30 this year reached a possible all-time high, finance chairman Alderman Jack Monk reported to city council Tuesday night.
Presenting a report by G. J. Boer, assessor, Alderman Monk said 98.01 per cent of the 1957 levy had been collected.
The total 1957 levy is $499,509.27 and the total collections to September 30 totalled $489,589.07.
Alderman Monk said it was interesting to note that over the past 10 years the percentage of collections for the same period did not go below 96.16.
Mayor Frank Becker commented the report goes to prove that Vernon's claim to be the fastest growing city in the interior is not an idle boast. He added he wondered if Mayor J. Ladd of Kelowna could match this excellent report.

Gren organization would build an industrial empire in the area costing perhaps $100,000,000.
NEW AGREEMENT
Mr. Bennett's statement Tuesday was in the nature of an interim report on the surveys, for which Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Company Limited retained the British Thomson-Houston Company of London. He said the government has signed an agreement with Wenner-Gren principals providing for further study of dam sites. The company has until Dec. 31, 1959, to commit itself on the development.
The premier left no doubt that he believes the mammoth development will take place, revolutionizing the economic development of central and northern B.C., drawing new industries to the area and solving the province's power problems.
"Never before have I considered a project of such gigantic proportions, nor one which can have such far-reaching and beneficial effects on the people of British Columbia and Canada," he said.
British Columbia equipment, labor and supplies are given preference. A $500,000 cheque, deposited with the government by the company last winter as a performance guarantee, will be held as a continuing deposit to ensure that provisions of the latest agreement are met.

SAVING FINLAYSON
FINLAYSON (CP)—Deane Finlayson, B.C. Progressive Conservative leader, said today the proposed Wenner-Gren hydroelectric station on the Peace River may be full of fantasy.
"It is a thing of such terrific magnitude and apparent potential it is difficult to come to any well-considered conclusion on the matter," said Mr. Finlayson.

CVA STALWARTS WON'T RUN VANCOUVER
VANCOUVER (CP)—Three prospective candidates for the recently-formed Civic Voters Association here said they don't want to run in the December civic elections. Mrs. Eve Burns-Miller, one of the three, said she feels "the people are not ready" to challenge the Non-Partisan Association which has ruled civic politics in Vancouver for many years.

Opening lead—king of spades.

Donald Sweet, of Chicago, sent me this interesting hand which was played recently in a duplicate game.

The bidding was very good. South identified his enormous hand by jumping to three hearts.

Over the two diamond response, although two hearts would have been equally forcing, North co-operated in the slam effort by bidding clubs, and Blackwood took over from there.

At several tables, declarer went down at the six diamond contract. The play went ace of spades, followed by three rounds of hearts, dummy's spade being discarded. The ace of diamonds was then forced out but West returned the fourth round of hearts, Dummy ruffed, East overruffed, and the contract was down one.

The defense at these tables was pretty automatic. Declarer had led a low heart to the jack, which held the trick, so that West, in each case, knew South had started with A-K-Q of hearts. It was not too much for the West players to hope that partner could overruff dummy on a heart return.

Those who made the six diamond contract foresaw the possibility of the heart overruff. After cashing three high hearts and discarding the spade, they also cashed the A-K of clubs, discarding the remaining high heart. Now the ace of diamonds was conceded, and the slam was made.

Of course, the situation is unusual where declarer goes out of his way to discard a winner on a winner, but in this case retention of the high heart constitutes a clear-cut danger which has to be averted.

The heart is disposed of because it is a liability if it remains in the declarer's hand. Not only is the slam subject to defeat against the actual East-West distribution, if the heart is retained, but also if the East and West hands are exchanged. In such case, East also would return the fourth round of hearts after taking his singleton ace of diamonds and allow West to score the setting trick with the nine of diamonds.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

The Stars Say

FOR TOMORROW

There are some who may experience feelings of tension and pressure now, so be tactful in all dealings. Don't aggravate situations because of lack of understanding. You maintain your emotional poise and all will go well.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that decisions which you make during the next three months could have far-reaching effects, both financially and job-wise, so be exceptionally careful in making them. Do nothing impulsively and analyze all situations before taking action of any kind. The right action — especially during the current month—can produce fine results in 1958.

Aspects governing your personal life will be generally good during the new year, promising harmony in domestic, social and sentimental relationships. Avoid nervous tension in March, however, and, during April, keep a watchful eye on the budget. Travel will be favored between June and September, and some excellent news concerning a property matter is possible late in August. A child born on this day will be acutely sensitive, remarkably intuitive and capable of great affection.

RACE TO OUTER SPACE STIRS WORLD EXCITEMENT

When the race to outer space began with launching of the Red Moon "Sputnik," ham radio operators all across Canada, like Gil Stevens, left above, helped take over tracking of the satellite. Meanwhile, the United States continues its rocket testing in preparation for its own satellite launching expected soon. Upper right shows a Convair F-102A Delta Dagger all-weather jet interceptor at the moment of firing its supersonic rockets during tests.

NEW SIGHTINGS HELP

U.S. Observers May 'Fix' Red Moon's Exact Orbit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports of additional sightings of Russia's earth satellite raises hopes that Western scientists might speed up the computing of its precise orbit.

The latest observations showed the satellite is circling the globe right on schedule at a speed of 18,000 miles an hour, although one conflicting set of unofficial calculations showed its speed had dropped to 15,500, possibly indicating the ball might drop from its orbit.

Radio reception from the satellite was interrupted at times Monday night. The Russian globe, dubbed "Sputnik" by Soviet authorities, has held the attention of the world since its launching last Friday.

TRACE ORBIT

U.S. experts had hoped Monday night to obtain, by electronic computation, such detailed orbit data as the exact path of the sphere, its location in outer space and possibly its precise shape.

That information had been expected from data fed into a giant electronic computer at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory at Cambridge, Mass.

However, late Monday night, Dr. Fred L. Whipple, observatory director, said the machine did not come up with the expected material because of insufficient or accurate data.

The results still were close enough, he said, to track the orbit within one minute and one degree.

The electronic calculations were based on sightings in Alaska and Australia.

Meanwhile, there were these other developments:

1. A Russian scientist visiting in the United States said he believes the satellite is reporting atmospheric temperatures by radio, with the length of the "beep" signal as a code. A. A. Blagonravov made the statement in an interview with the New York Times in which he also suggested that a U.S. device for analyzing atmosphere be sent up in a Soviet satellite.

2. U.S. authorities announced plans to step up training of visual observers "due to the presence in our skies of the test satellite launched by the Soviet Union."

3. Dr. Lloyd Berkner, vice-chairman of the international committee for the International Geophysical Year, said the Russian satellite indicates the Soviets may have the capability of sending a ballistic missile to New York if they can aim it accurately.

Observation of the satellite is complicated by the fact that there are two satellites—the regular sphere and the rocket used to launch the globe into its orbit. The Russians have said the rocket is flying through space in about the same orbit as the Sputnik, though about 620 miles away from the satellite.

Dr. Whipple said at Cambridge that he does not believe the actual satellite itself but only the rocket section has been seen.

THIS GUY FIGURES DONALD DUCK IS PILOTING THE RED SATELLITE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A new description of the Russian satellite's radio signal has been given by a Vancouver man who says he heard it without the aid of a radio receiver.

The man said he heard "a blend of peeps like a lot of dogs barking in the distance or ducks quacking as they flew overhead."

He dismissed the experience until he heard a broadcast recording of the satellite's signal.

"It was exactly the same sound," he said.

Australia Expert Claims Reds Are Talking To Their Satellite

WOOMERA, Australia (AP)—An Australian electronic authority says Russia appeared to send a "now tell us what you know" message to its moon Sunday and the satellite apparently answered.

The Australian was unable to listen in on what the moon was telling because "we haven't got the code," he added.

The expert was John Dowling, officer in charge of the Australian International Geophysical Year program at Woomera. He based his view on a film record of the signal he took Sunday.

Stretching out a roll of film, he showed first how the regular Russian signal was recorded.

"Then," he added, "there is this continuous signal that might have been an interrogation signal. Then there are pulses that could be answers. Then the regular beep begins again."

"You can't say where the interrogation signal came from. It could have been from the Antarctic, where Russian scientists are stationed."

NOT MESSAGES

SEATTLE (AP)—William R. Tiffany, director of the Phonetics Laboratory at the University of Washington, said that radio signals from the Russian earth satellite are not messages.

Tiffany said recordings of the signals had been analyzed with a sound spectrograph and the "sound pattern is too regular to indicate the use of code or the transmission of messages."

Blossom started working on it in May, 1954.

At that time, the school board announced it would comply with the Supreme Court decision declaring segregation unconstitutional. But Blossom said then, and still says, time is the all-important factor.

The essentials of the plan are: 1. Phasing integration over an unspecified period of years. It begins with the high schools, then applies to junior high schools, and finally the primary grades.

2. Scheduling it in terms of finances, facilities and problems that develop as the process moves forward.

It has a unique third feature. Any student, white or Negro, who by reason of his address would normally be assigned to a school where his race is in the minority, is permitted to go out of his district and enroll in one which has a majority of his race.

INTERESTING RESULT

The result was interesting. This fall, all 323 white students in the predominantly Negro area around Horace Mann High School elected to go to Central. Virgil Blossom is a big man. He stands six feet three, weighs 250 pounds, is a former director of athletics. He will be 51 this month. He is married and has two daughters, Betty Sue, 19, and Gail, 16. He was born in Brookfield, Me.

A YANKEE

The Capitol Citizens Council, a hard-core segregationist organization, likes to harp on the fact that Brookfield is "right next to the Iowa line." This, in their reasoning, makes Blossom a Yankee—a foreigner who does not understand Arkansas, although he went to the University of Arkansas and has lived in the state more than 20 years.

Blossom pays no attention. He's a stubborn fighter.

Moon Has Exploring Eyes, Ears

NEW YORK (AP)—Russian reports now suggest that their moon carries several eyes and ears to explore secrets of space and earth.

It would be radioing back in code what it learns.

Various Soviet reports indicate Sputnik is measuring temperatures in space, meteors, changes in magnetism, and perhaps cosmic rays.

At first Sputnik was said to carry only batteries and radio equipment so it could send out signals needed to learn its path or orbit. A Russian rocket scientist, Dr. A. A. Blagonravov, attending a meeting in Washington, said he thought it was a simple moon, doing only that job.

But he said Russia had two moons ready to shoot at the time. And it's possible the first Sputnik to go aloft was the more complex one.

Now Dr. Blagonravov says he thinks the moon is measuring temperatures in space.

Earlier a Russian scientist in Moscow said it was counting hits by meteors in space.

It would have to radio such information back in code.

U.S. scientists say Sputnik's signals seem to contain a code, known only to the Russians.

This code seems to be broadcast continuously. The Russians could also send a command signal for Sputnik to talk to earth only when it is passing over Russia.

Now Moscow radio says Sputnik is learning new things about the electro-magnetic South Pole.

How this information is being learned by Soviet scientists tracking Sputnik in the Antarctic is not explained.

Sputnik might carry a magnetometer to measure changes in the earth's magnetic field.

Or some information might be learned by the way the radio waves broadcast by Sputnik have been deflected by the earth's magnetic pole.

One advantage of Sputnik's orbit for scientific studies is that it brings it nearer the north and south magnetic poles than U.S. moons will go.

twice challenged the "Little Rock plan" in the courts. The NAACP petitioned for total integration, at once, in all grades.

U.S. district Judge John E. Miller, ruling against the NAACP, approved the plan as it stood. He is an Arkansas—not, as Fubus described U.S. district Judge "Ronald N. Davies, an 'import-ed judge.'"

The NAACP challenged again last April and the eighth Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Miller and the school board.

"MADE IN RUSSIA"

To Hang A Moon In Sky You Sling-Shot It Outward

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—A strange new moon stamped "Made in Russia" is racing around the world over the heads of startled, puzzled people.

The Russians calmly say they'll soon give this baby moon a brother. They hint of bigger surprises to come. They even talk of landing on the moon in a few years.

Questions flood forth. What does it mean? How can a moon be hung in the sky? Does it spell good or evil?

About two years ago, Russia and the United States each said it would tackle baby moon programs. There's nothing mysterious in how you do it.

You sling-shot the moon up high enough, fast enough, in the right direction or angle.

Powerful rockets, firing and then dropping off in stages to boost the speed, are the sling. The moon is cradled in the nose. The rocket first rises straight up. Then its flight is controlled so it curves and flies parallel to the earth at a pre-selected altitude. Now the final rocket fires, shooting the moon forward, then letting it go.

The tremendous speed keeps the moon going, with no more "gas" needed.

The speed is critical. Shoot the moon forward at only 10,000 miles an hour and gravity hauls it back to earth, as with a baseball. Shoot it 18,000 miles an hour and the moon gets in balance with gravity.

TRIES TO PULL IT

Gravity tries to pull it back. But only succeeds in making it curve around the earth. That's why our real moon keeps swinging around the earth. If you could shut off gravity, the real moon and baby moon would shoot away in a straight line.

Shoot the moon at 23,000 miles an hour and it thumbs its nose at earth's gravity. It escapes and goes roaming through the universe.

The fantastically thin amount of air finally slows the moon down — after days, weeks or years—and it spirals down into the thick atmosphere to burn up and disappear like a shooting star.

Successfully hanging a moon in the sky is, of course, exquisitely difficult. Everything must work just right.

STUNNED THE WORLD

Russia said little in advance. Until the stunning news last Friday that a moon weighing 184 pounds was speeding around the earth at a 560-mile height every hour and a half. It's a ball 23 inches wide.

How did they do it? Why no advance notice?

"We do not brag about plans in advance, we wait until the experiment is successful," said Soviet scientists.

Until Russia discloses her story, there are only the guesses and viewpoints of experts. Listing some:

She wedded her moon effort to her military rocket program.

BOOSTER STAGE

A big help was using the booster stage of her recently announced rocket, which Russia says could deliver an H-bomb anywhere in the world.

She concentrated whatever talent and money was needed without regard to cost.

Her success means she has excellent rocketry and guidance mechanisms.

Some observers think she waited until her moon was up before giving any inkling of the attempt. A failure would be embarrassing, though explainable due to difficult pioneering.

SENDS RADIO SIGNALS

The moon is broadcasting radio signals. These are being used to determine the exact orbit.

One Soviet expert says it contains only batteries and the radio voice equipment to track it. But another says that it is also counting the cosmic dust or meteorites it whizzes into in space. It could be radioing that knowledge back in a code.

Accurate observations of the flight path can tell much about the thickness of air in space, something about the shape of the earth and how to improve the launching or behavior of future moons.

Russia has another moon ready to go "in the nearest future."

PHARMACY WEEK

Pharmacy Week is observed annually by the retail and hospital pharmacists of Canada and the United States early in the month of October. During this week they honor their pharmacist colleagues in manufacturing and research and try to tell you a little more about the profession to which they belong.

Apothecaries in olden days guarded their secrets diligently. The modern pharmacist makes no mystery of his dispensing skill. The thing he guards is your health through his accurate compounding of prescriptions and safe storage of drugs.

Young people today who wish to enter pharmacy may do so. The only factor considered is the high calibre of their studies. There are many branches to the profession of pharmacy besides retailing: hospital, research, teaching, manufacturing, control, medical detailing.

The retail pharmacist is the man who meets the public, he is the man behind the prescription counter in your pharmacy.

When he fills your prescription, remember the many pharmacists behind the scenes who have brought this medicine to you. Pharmacy Week pays homage to the great heritage of the past and looks toward the brighter horizons of new and more wonderful life-saving drugs which pharmacists around the world are studying, testing at this moment.

SCHOOL OFFICIAL ANGERED

Race Hate Blocks Leader

By RELMAN MORIN

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A more thoroughly angry, harassed and sorrowing man than Virgil T. Blossom would be hard to find today.

Blossom, superintendent of schools in Little Rock and architect of the "Little Rock plan" designed to integrate its schools. He worked on it for three years, inching carefully toward a solution of the thousand-and-one problems. It was the hardest job of his life. Two months ago, he thought he had it licked.

Then came disaster.

On the night of Sept. 2, the night before Central High School reopened for the fall term, Gov. Orval Faubus suddenly put national guardsmen around the high school. His orders—keep out Negroes.

The "Little Rock plan" went up the chimney.

Virgil Blossom is a big man. He stands six feet three, weighs 250 pounds, is a former director of athletics. He will be 51 this month. He is married and has two daughters, Betty Sue, 19, and Gail, 16. He was born in Brookfield, Me.

A YANKEE

The Capitol Citizens Council, a hard-core segregationist organization, likes to harp on the fact that Brookfield is "right next to the Iowa line." This, in their reasoning, makes Blossom a Yankee—a foreigner who does not understand Arkansas, although he went to the University of Arkansas and has lived in the state more than 20 years.

Blossom pays no attention. He's a stubborn fighter.

With candid pride, he says of the plan he devised:

"It is airtight legally. It preserves educational standards for all students. We think it's the best plan put forward yet. The parent-teachers associations are ready to stand up and be counted right now."

"So it's certain to be advanced in other communities in the south. That's why the segregationists are fighting it so hard. It leaves them with no valid arguments."

Blossom started working on it in May, 1954.

At that time, the school board announced it would comply with the Supreme Court decision declaring segregation unconstitutional. But Blossom said then, and still says, time is the all-important factor.

The essentials of the plan are: 1. Phasing integration over an unspecified period of years. It begins with the high schools, then applies to junior high schools, and finally the primary grades.

2. Scheduling it in terms of finances, facilities and problems that develop as the process moves forward.
